

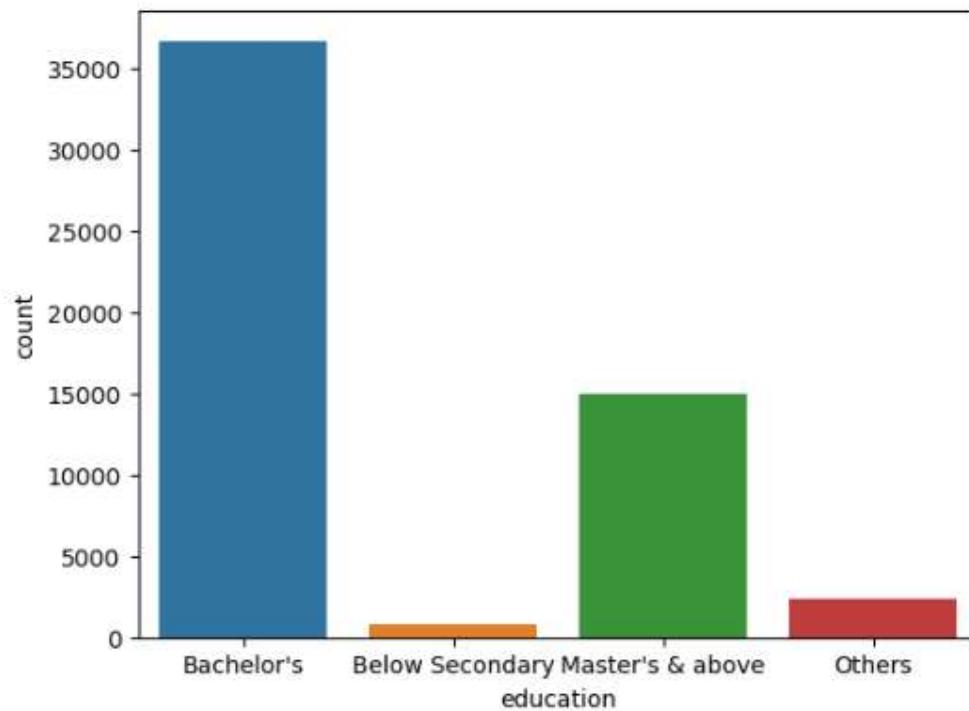

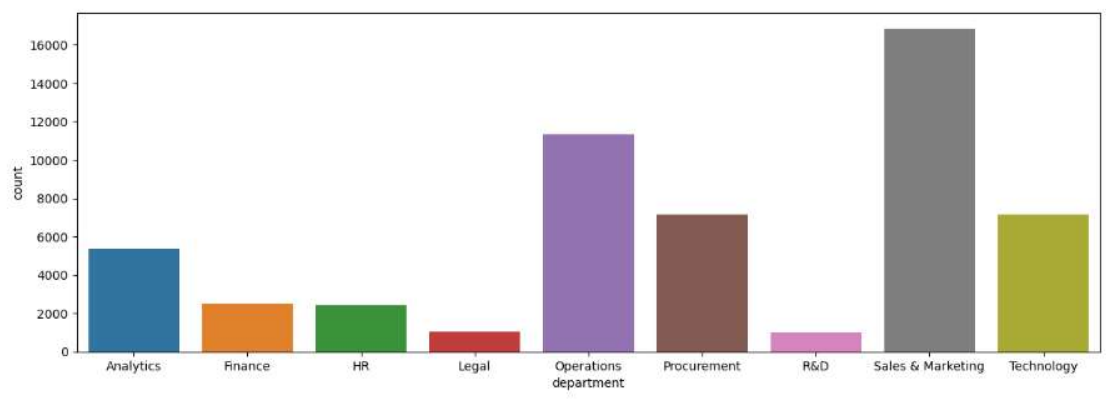

Graphical Representation of insights from the data

1) Graphical representation of educational background of employees in the company.

Above graph is the representation of educational background of employees in the company.

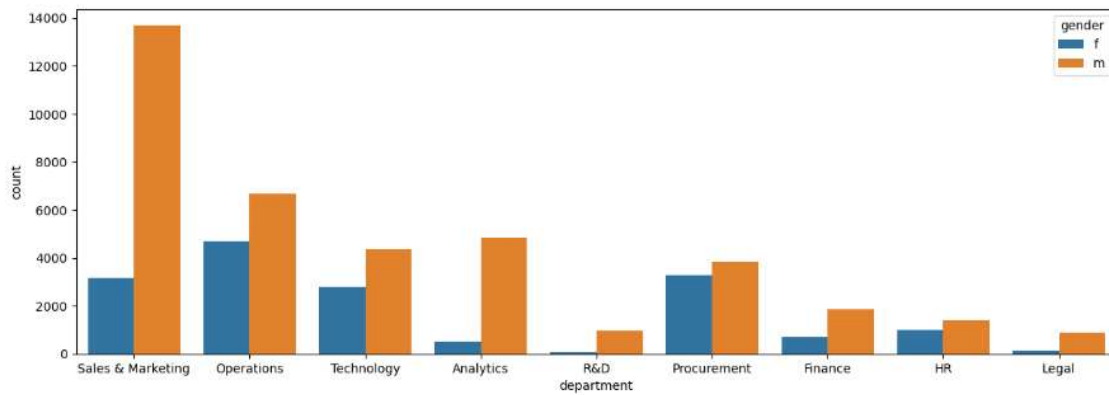

2) Employee strength of the departments.

Above chart shows us the employee strength in different departments. We can conclude Sales & Marketing team has the most employee, whereas R&D department strength is least among the group.

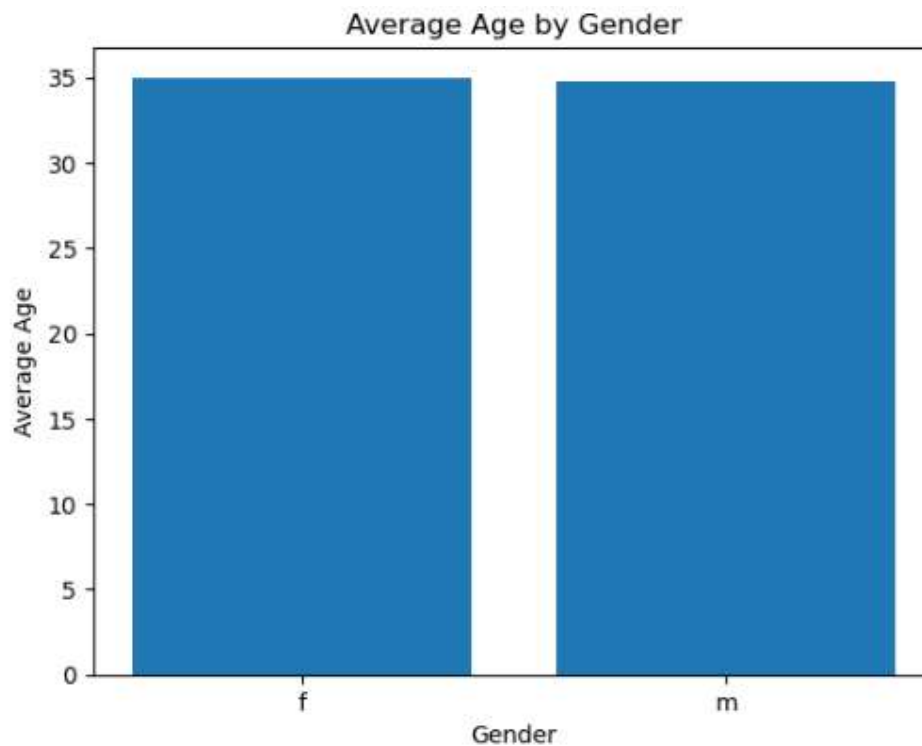

Graphical Representation of insights from the data

3) Male & Female employee comparison in the different department.

Above graph represents the Male and Female comparisons in the departments of a company. Sales & Marketing department has great difference between Male & Femal Employees

4) Average age of employees

We can conclude that the average age of the male female are same in the organisation